

Our Small Grant Program for Research in Environmental Economics

A small grants programs on topics relevant to Latin America and the Caribbean, by which local researches in Universities, Ministries, NGO's, etc; will learn the art of applied scientific research.

Each researcher will work closely with a scientifically recognized tutor, in order to enrich the experience and increase the likelihood of a useful paper, which, in addition to being potentially publishable, will have policy implication for the region. Policy relevance will be sine qua non for accepting a proposal.

The objective is to give at least 10 grants of US$15000 per year.

A small grants programs on topics relevant to Latin America and the Caribbean, by which local researches in Universities, Ministries, NGO's, etc; will learn the art of applied scientific research.

Each researcher will work closely with a scientifically recognized tutor, in order to enrich the experience and increase the likelihood of a useful paper, which, in addition to being potentially publishable, will have policy implication for the region. Policy relevance will be sine qua non for accepting a proposal.

The objective is to give at least 10 grants of US$15000 per year.